

CAMPAIGN DAYS WERE RECALLED

By Attorney General Honan When He Was Making a Ruling on New Law.

CIGARS WERE VOTE GETTERS

In His Early Campaigns.—One Woman Who Appreciated Bunch of Them.

Attorney General Honan, who has ruled that the new law renders a candidate liable to prosecution who gives out cigars when canvassing for votes, has in the past when the laws were different according to the Indianapolis News found cigars great campaign aids. The News quotes Mr. Honan as saying in an interview: "The first time I made the race for prosecuting attorney down at home, I hope it impressed on me how valuable is a cigar, even of the campaign grade, in vote getting. I had gone to the country, a township where I had never seen before, and stopped at a cabin, where I was admitted by an old woman who was smoking a pipe. I found her intelligent, interested in politics, and as much a democrat as if she was a voter. I noticed she was smoking tobacco grown on the native hillsides, and I drew a cigar from my pocket, suggesting that she break it up and try it in her pipe. She did, and liked it. I then gave her three more, and she crumpled them up and stuffed them into a clean tobacco bag. I asked her if there was any other person in her family, and she told me she had a son, old enough to vote. At that I produced three more cigars, and asked her to give them to him. She was greatly pleased by the simple gift. On leaving I asked her to speak to her son about me, and ask him to vote for me in the primary. "Ask him! I'll tell him he has to do it, and he'll do it, too," she declared. "A few days later I was campaigning in Salem on Saturday afternoon, when I observed a young fellow watching me very closely. Finally I left the crowd and asked him what he wanted. He told me he was the son of the woman I had visited, that he was then smoking one of the cigars I had left for him, that his mother had instructed him to vote for me, and that he had come to town especially to see what sort of looking chap I was. "You'll do, I guess," he said 'I'll vote for you, an' I'll help you to get some more votes in our neighborhood.' "I handed him another handful of cigars, and had the satisfaction of carrying his precinct in the primary election. "In that same campaign I carried another precinct by distributing a box of cigars in a little sawmill town where the balance of power was held. The cigars and a half hour spent with the boys at the sawmill did the work. I tried to talk for fifteen minutes before I produced the cigars, but could not get any one to listen to me, but as soon as the cigars showed up, I had an attentive crowd."

YOUNG MAN Whose Imagination Seemed to Have Been Working.

A young stranger was floating around Seymour Thursday reveling in the imagination that he has a big estate coming to him and discussing plans for the expenditure of an alleged inheritance. He gave no evidences of intoxication or of being unbalanced mentally. However after spending the night in jail he claimed this morning that he could not remember quite a number of things he did yesterday, none of which were criminal but which were of a character to arouse suspicion and to attract the attention of the police.

The young man Thursday afternoon called at Steinwedel's clothing store and looked over some suits and finally selected samples and said he would be in today and order a couple of suits. He also called at the Jerrill restaurant and secured rates for a month's board which he said he would pay in advance when he came in later. At the clothing store he gave out the information that he had just inherited $9,000 down in Tennessee and had part of it on deposit here. He talked of starting a dry goods store in the room in the building next to the Steinwedel store.

He seemed however to be short of ready cash. During the day he was at the Seymour Woolen Mills looking for a job, claiming to have worked in such a factory. There was no opening there but some one being sorry for his broke condition gave him a dollar. With this dollar he bought cigars, cigarettes and lunch and when picked up at night by the police who had been notified of his actions, he had but 20 cents and no place to sleep. To the officers he said he had formerly worked in towns down on the river and had come to Crothersville a day or two ago, having worked there he said during 1907. From Crothers he came to Seymour looking for work.

This morning when taken to Steinwedel's store and other places he visited yesterday when his imagination was working he said he had no recollection of visiting the places before. Whether the young man had been working the preliminaries yesterday for some kind of a later holdup game could not be determined but he was finally released this morning. He then began a round of the factories looking for work.

HOADLEY'S

The Meaning. The initiative, referendum and recall are mentioned so frequently in political discussions now that the following brief explanation of these political terms is given:

By the initiative is meant a provision of law whereby a certain prescribed percentage of the voters may, by petition to the legislative body, propose the enactment of a certain measure, and whereby, when so proposed, the body must either pass the act suggested or submit, by referendum, to the vote of the people the question of whether or not such legislation shall be had.

The referendum signifies that plan of government which requires that an act of the legislative body shall, upon the petition of a certain percentage of the voters, be submitted by that body to a vote of the people, for their approval, and that no such act shall become a law until so approved.

The recall means the privilege given by law to the people, upon the petition of a certain prescribed percentage of voters, to have a vote taken upon the question of whether or not a certain officer whose term has not expired shall be retired from the office.

Peace Day.

Charles A. Greathouse, state superintendent of public instruction, has sent to the state printer a program to be distributed among the schools of the state for observance of "Peace Day." The program was prepared by Miss Charity Dye, of Indianapolis, and the date selected for the observance is May 18. Many of the schools of the state will be dismissed before that time, but the state superintendent proposes that where such is the case, the teachers shall carry out the program on the last day of school, or on some preceding day.

The purpose of the program is to emphasize the world peace movement, and to give the pupils a better understanding of what the movement proposes to accomplish.

Trades His Farm.

Andy Richardson recently traded a farm in Kentucky for the furnishings in a rooming house in Indianapolis, which is located on North Illinois street, two squares north of the Terminal station. Mr. Richardson has engaged Mrs. Lona Thrasher, a lady who has been in the hotel business for a number of years, to take charge of the house for him, as his business here requires his attention. He will still retain his residence here and has only bought the Indianapolis place as a speculation.

Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Black entertained a few friends last night at rook, at their home on St. Louis Avenue, in honor of her father, J. C. Baker's birthday and as a farewell to their niece, Miss Minnie Mann, who has made her home with them for several months. Miss Mann will leave Sunday for her home in Aurora. A very pleasant evening was had by all present.

MOVEMENT IS INAUGURATED

By the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company To Improve Service.

THE DEPARTMENT HEADS MET

And Organized General Efficiency Committee.—Meeting Will Be Held in Seymour.

The Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern Traction Company has inaugurated a general movement on that line to secure the best and most efficient service possible on the road and to insure a minimum of accidents.

The plan is something along the line of that promoted by the B. & O. General Manager Shane and Trainmaster, L. M. Brown attended the recent meeting held by the B. & O. at the opera house in Seymour and were deeply interested in the addresses. The traction company had been planning for such a movement for some time. The department heads at a preliminary meeting at Greenwood this week took the first steps for organization.

A general committee was organized to be known as the General Efficiency Committee, and Alexander Shane, general manager of the road was made chairman. The other members of the committee are L. M. Brown, trainmaster; William Meyers, master mechanic; Levi Crater, chief engineer; Ira E. Guthrie, auditor; F. P. Smith, superintendent of W. & S., and R. O. Boyer, special agent. Trainmaster Brown is made secretary of the committee. Local committees will be organized at once at Greenwood, Edinburg, Columbus and Seymour.

General Manager Shane in an interview regarding the movement said: "The purpose of the organization will be to improve the service. Our method will be to enroll all the employees in the local organization and encourage harmony and co-operation, point out any defects or call attention to anything that will improve the service and discuss the same at the local meeting and submit to the central committee for final discussion and recommendations.

"By this method we hope to interest every employe in doing all that he can to avoid accidents and give better and more efficient service."

COMMERCIAL CLUB Every Man Should Attend the Meeting Tonight at the City Building.

At 7:30 tonight at the City Building the members of the Commercial Club will meet to complete the organization by the election of directors and for transacting such other business as may come before the meeting. Every man who is interested in the welfare of Seymour should enroll himself as a member and attend this meeting. The membership now enrolls more than 100 names, and the purpose is to make the number 200 by the first of June.

During the last few years Seymour citizens have shown that they can accomplish things worth while. When the telephone proposition was up the present company was organized and financed by our citizens and the new plant was constructed and put in successful operation within a very few months on the dividend paying basis. Last year the proposition for locating the B. & O. S-W. offices was taken up and was successfully handled, and the stock in this proposition is paying satisfactory dividends. In each case the work was done without any commercial club, although a temporary organization was formed in each case to carry on the work.

The purpose of the Commercial Club is to have a permanent organization ready to take up any proposition and to be on the outlook for propositions that will promote the business prosperity of our city. Seymour has the enterprise and the ability to make rapid advances during the next few years under proper management, and conditions are very favorable now for such advancement to be made. Do not fail to attend the meeting tonight and enroll yourself as a member of the club and in this way show your interest in our good city.

ART EXHIBIT.

We are pleased to announce that the Seymour public will have another opportunity to study some of the best paintings of our foremost Indiana artists. The exhibit this year will be given in Society Hall, beginning Thursday evening, March 14, and continuing each afternoon and night up to and including Wednesday night, March 20.

We Have No Strings

Tied to anyone. If we had we would pull every boy and girl into our store and fit them with a pair of Rice & Hutchins school shoes. After that we would not need the string,—they would come back of their own accord, and be so well satisfied they would always wear Rice & Hutchins shoes. There is a reason for it. Rice & Hutchins is one of the oldest manufacturers of shoes in the United States. They have been fifty years establishing a reputation for making good shoes, they can't afford to make shoddy shoes. That's why—That's why.

ROSS-SHOES The Gold Mine is Opposite Us

To Have Fine Establishment.

James Demas, who recently moved his confectionery store and ice cream parlors to the room adjoining the First National Bank expects, when the work of decorating and refurnishing is completed, to have one of the finest establishments of the kind in Southern Indiana or in the state outside of the larger cities for that matter. He has one of the best and most central locations in the city and will put in considerable new equipment. The ice cream parlor back of the confectionery store is being attractively decorated. The walls will in part be covered by large landscape paintings and large mirrors will adorn the remainder of the wall space. The furniture will be up to date. Mr. Demas will have his candy making quarters in the back room and in the rooms at present occupied by Dr. Shields. The latter will move to the large room just north formerly used by the Ideal, it having an entrance on Second street.

Mr. Demas has fitted up the upstairs as living rooms. Business has prospered since he came to Seymour and he believes the improvements he is making are justified and will be appreciated by his patrons.

COUNTY LINE ROAD.

No Decision Reached by Commissioners at Joint Meeting.

Commissioners Hall and Turmail, accompanied by Auditor Wacker went to Columbus Thursday to confer with the Bartholomew county commissioners regarding the proposed county line gravel road between Redding and Hamilton townships in this county and Wayne township in Bartholomew. Commissioner Fleetwood was unable to go on account of the arrival of a little son in his family. No action was taken at the joint meeting and another meeting will be held at Columbus next Friday.

It is proposed to build the road under the three mile law and as it is three and a quarter miles long, two petitions were prepared as there are two townships in this county interested and this plan to make two roads of the one would evade the three mile provision. However at Columbus the question was raised as to whether this could be done as only one township in Bartholomew is interested and the road is not divided in that county by a township line. The Bartholomew attorney was absent and it was decided to hold another session to settle the question.

THE SPENDER.

A young man from Wilkesbarre, Pa., went to New York city and spent $600 in a day and night—because he wanted to be a "millionaire for a day."

He arrived on a special car, had "a time," according to his standards, and went home "broke," but boasting.

Silly chap!

Does he suppose millionaires have nothing to do but blow in money on reckless living? The average rich man is not making more money to indulge in dissipation. He does not go the pace because he cannot afford it. He is seeking money, not diversion.

This young man of Wilkesbarre says he fabricated the $600.

That makes the matter worse. That money represents somebody's sweat and privation. But it was his, you say. Did he not have the right to spend it as he chose? Legally, yes; morally—No!

That money is part of the accumulated assets of a working social order. Morally he is bound to use it as a trust.

Six hundred dollars. It would feed 3,000 hungry children. It would buy somebody a modest home. Instead it bought only a fool's paradise for a day.

It requires no more brains to fall into an inheritance of $600 than to fall into a mud puddle.

It requires less brains or merit to waste $600 than to earn 60 cents as a scavenger or a rat catcher, honorable occupations beside that of the waster.

Any one can waste money.

It requires neither wit nor grit to play that farce.

But it takes men of sex to go into the crowd at the market place or stand bare breasted before the furnace fire or heave clay out of a ditch and get and use money rightly.

And—

No red blooded man has any right to dawdle in Turkish baths at $25 per or play the puppet millionaire by giving five dollar tips to manicure ladies.

The spender is a drone.

He merely eats the honey. He neither gathers nor spreads the pollen. In bedoom, where they do things properly, the workers sting the shirkers to death and drag out their bodies.

And that poor fool from Wilkesbarre—

He adds to the stigma of the spender the reputation of the braggart who boasts of his accomplishment.

NO ONE'S ENEMY BUT HIS OWN.

A dissipated man who was found dead in his bed the other day at a private reformatory left a note declaring that he had "found it impossible to make good in this world, fate having it in for me," and seeking to extenuate his failure by the remark that "after I am gone no one can say that I ever did them an injustice." The writer of that letter was evidently one of those men—their number is considerable—who are disposed to blame everyone but themselves for their lack of success and of whom it is said by indulgent and sympathetic friends that they are no one's enemy but their own, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. That is what shiftless and improvident and undisciplined people have been doing since the beginning of time, and the plea is inadmissible. No doubt some are luckier than others, and in case of a few, misfortunes multiply to such an extent that it does seem as though they were the victims of an unpropitious and avenging destiny. But in the great majority of cases defeat is self-inflicted. To say of a man that he is no one's enemy but his own is to utter a fallacy. The man who does badly by himself must necessarily do badly by others. He is a source of loss and sorrow within the whole circle of his acquaintance, and he is not to be excused upon the ground that he is himself the greatest sufferer from his wrongdoing.

The census bureau is on hand to support the sorrows of the poor husband in respect to the cost of women's hats. It is mounting up into the three figure per cent. increases. In 1903 there were 213 establishments furnishing the trade with plumes, feathers and artificial flowers; in 1909, six years after, these establishments increased to 412. The value of this millinery product is given at $5,247,000 in 1903 and $23,981,000 in 1909, or an increase of 357 per cent., says the Ohio State Journal. That far exceeds our increase in population, wealth, salary or personal efficiency. It represents a solid, wearisome, crushing weight on the shoulders of that unfortunate class of people who happen to be born men, and for whom there doesn't seem to be any sympathy anywhere in the wide, wide world. And yet, strange to say, we do not notice that the men are raging about it. They are bearing it as meekly as lambs. They are smiling under the torture; they are heroic and uncomplaining. We suggest at the next woman's banquet the toast, The Men—God Bless 'Em.

A New York jury awarded a lawyer six cents damages and Justice Goff set the verdict aside with the observation that a lawyer's reputation must be worth more than that. Nevertheless the justice must admit that it depends on the lawyer, just as in any other case it must depend on the man. Membership in any profession or employment in any occupation does not constitute a certificate of character.

The coloring of meerschaum pipes can now be done by a machine that never burns the pipe, but in spite of this great modern improvement there will undoubtedly be men who will go right on trying to color their meerschaum pipes themselves, and not infrequently spoiling them in the process, in the same old-fashioned way.

Mince pie and apple dumpling have been banished from the menu of some college girls in Massachusetts because the college authorities found the girls sleepy after partaking of these delicacies. But the so-called torpor may have been only that supreme content with good things which bars ambition.

The board of education in Los Angeles has barred boxing for the high school girls for fear their beauty and their prospects may both be marred. It is very likely that the reason given for the prohibition will cause its unquestioning acceptance by the fair subjects of the ukase.

MAN LOST AMBITION.

It seemed strange to so active and energetic young man as Arthur Scott of Brooklyn that he did not attack his work with the usual enthusiasm last spring.

He knew it was not "spring fever" for his health failed and, to use his own words in a recent letter, "I could not sleep, had no energy or ambition and could not do my work properly."

"I must say that Vinol has done me wonderful good for I feel strong and ambitious again, just like I used to before my health failed. I rest well at night, have a good appetite and no more nervousness, all because I took your excellent tonic, Vinol."

One reason Mr. Scott was willing to try Vinol was because he knew he could get his money back if Vinol did not benefit him. This delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil, positively has no equal as a spring medicine, to enrich the blood and make weak, worn-out men, women and children, rugged, rosy and strong. We guarantee it to do this, and give back your money if it does not. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

All in the Game.

Cy Clark used to keep a hotel up Fox Lake way and maintained a fleet of rowboats for his guests. It was his fancy to tack a playing card, with the individual's name on it, on the bow of the boat, indicating temporary possession. A boarder who had made himself more than solid by his liberality made a complaint that all the boats were out but one, and he wanted to go fishing. At the time the landlord was trying to straighten out into packs a couple of hundred playing cards that had been bundled carelessly. "Whose boat is it?" asked Cy. "I don't know," said the boarder. "It has a nine of diamonds tacked on it." "Take it," returned Cy. "Here's the ten."—Chicago Evening Post.

FRENCHMEN THOUGHT IT JOKE

Ambassador Jusserand's Request for an Outdoor Sleeping Porch Not Taken Seriously at Home.

The French government has obtained a permit, blueprints and full specifications for a fine new embassy building here in Washington. As French architects rank among the best in the world, the building will probably be an attractive structure, with hardwood floors, modern plumbing, glass doorknobs and decorated to suit.

But J. J. Jusserand, the French ambassador, isn't certain whether the place is going to be anything much or not. In some respects the houses that are shown in the daily papers suit him much better, and he has made bold to tell the French government so.

Inasmuch as Jusserand is going to live in the place, his government assumed, quite logically, that he and his wife would have some little curiosity to see the plans and note the locations of closets and bathrooms. So they sent him blueprints showing the front, side and rear elevations and the interior arrangements.

Jusserand promptly wrote back to his government saying he wished, while they were about it, that they would build a house with a few of the more modern conveniences. For example, he pointed out no American thinks of building a house nowadays without an outdoor sleeping porch and also a cute little screened porch where they could serve afternoon tea.

Jusserand's letter caused much consternation in his native land. The French officials couldn't figure out why a few years' residence in America should give a high born citizen so many barbarous notions about architecture. After several weeks they answered his sleeping porch communication and told him they enjoyed his little joke.

"Of course, you cannot be serious," they said, "in wishing to sleep publicly. The outdoor porch might be very nice for an American hunting cabin with its picturesque log finish, but for an embassy building located in the heart of a city, any arrangement for one to sleep out on the porch would no doubt excite much funny comment. Furthermore, we do not know of any recognized school of architecture that provides for a special porch to sleep on."

Jusserand threw up his hands with a despairing gesture on receipt of the letter, asked for one more window in the front bedroom, and let it go at that.

Bill introduced for the Establishment of a Chain of Stores for Federal Employees.

Government-owned department stores in Washington to sell staple commodities at cost to Uncle Sam's army of employees!

That is the latest reform that Representative Berger of Wisconsin, the Socialist member of the house, has undertaken to accomplish. He introduced a bill the other day appropriating $1,000,000 for the establishment of a chain of stores to be organized and operated along the lines of the commissary stores in the canal strip on the Isthmus of Panama.

The Berger measure asks that the secretary of the interior, at the earliest practicable time, establish in the city of Washington, at suitable places, stores for the sale, at cost price, of staple commodities to all employees of the federal government.

A clause in Berger's bill provides for the extension of facilities already at hand until such time as the chain of stores is completed. This clause reads:

"That the privilege of purchasing, at cost price, commodities from the department stores at Washington barracks, D. C., and at navy yard station, D. C., now restricted to officers and enlisted men of the army and navy, be and the same is hereby extended to all employees of the federal government."

Details Delights President.

While the making of appointments and federal patronage has been the bane of President Taft's executive life, it is one thing in which he has equaled the judgment of McKinley, especially in filling the important posts. They have been made to effectively carry out the administration policies with as little regard for personal wishes as Lincoln manifested. When the perplexing problems of political policy are before him his brow wrinkles and his mental appetite for facts is whetted. No matter how large the mass of detailed information involving a fundamental decision or policy he is a happy man—happy with a task that would appal the ordinary man, but the petty annoyances of patronage are his abhorrence.—National Magazine.

Largest Sassafras Tree.

A sassafras tree is the principal in Atlanta, Georgia's, new bid for fame. The largest sassafras tree in the world, says the department of agriculture. To most people the name sassafras is associated in their minds with the picture of a low, stunted bush luxuriantly foliaged, from the roots of which their grandmothers made tea to "cure spring fever" and other ills of that nature. A sassafras tree has been a thing unknown. In the yard of the First Methodist church of Atlanta the sassafras tree stands, passed by thousands each day. The tree, according to experts of the agricultural department, is more than 100 years old. It is 7 1/2 feet in circumference, 50 feet high and has a spread of more than 40 feet.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

During the cold weather we are able to digest heartier foods and they are most necessary to keep up the body heat. An occasional dish, not so rich in fat, is relished. Here is a recipe rather unusual:

Indian Doughnuts.—Pour a cup of boiling milk over a cup of white cornmeal, two tablespoonfuls of butter and half a teaspoonful of salt. When cool add one and a half cups of sugar, two beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of allspice and two cups of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Handle as soft as possible. Cut and fry in deep fat. If the dough is well chilled before rolling the cakes may be handled much softer.

Marshmallow Grape Juice.—Add the juice of a lemon to a quart of grape juice and sweeten as desired. Boil with a stick of cinnamon and a few cloves. Serve hot in glasses with two marshmallows in each glass. This is a nice hot drink on a cold day.

Mutton in Green Grape Sauce.—Brown two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour in a saucepan; add salt, pepper and a cup of gravy. As soon as well blended add a third of a cup of green grape jelly. When melted, lay in a few slices of roast mutton, and when thoroughly hot add five tablespoonfuls of unsweetened grape juice, and serve.

Oysters Sauted.—Pour a quart of boiling water over a pint of oysters, then drain and chop fine. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, turn in the oysters and season well; add two tablespoonfuls of rolled crackers and three-fourths of a cup of cream, stir and cook five minutes. Serve on toast strips with parsley.

Baked custards are greatly improved by the addition of a few spoonfuls of coconut. The same is true of custard pie.

S.S.S. FOR RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood, which gradually gets into the circulation because of indigestion, constipation, weak kidney action, and other irregularities of the system which are sometimes considered of no importance. This uric acid causes an inflamed and irritated condition of the blood, and the circulation instead of nourishing the different portions of the body, continually deposits into the nerves, muscles, tissues and joints, the irritating, pain-producing acid with which it is filled. Rheumatism can only be cured by a thorough cleansing of the blood, and this is just what S. S. S. does. It goes down into the circulation, and by neutralizing the uric acid and driving it from the blood, effectually and surely removes the cause. S. S. S. strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour stream, causing pain and agony throughout the system, it becomes an invigorating, nourishing fluid, furnishing health and vigor to every part of the body and relieving the suffering caused by this disease. S. S. S. being a purely vegetable blood purifier, is the surest and safest cure for Rheumatism in any of its forms. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

Laws That Favor Women.
The Women Lawyers' Journal of New York gives a list of the amendments to the laws of New York state that have been proposed so that women may be more equal in the sight of the law with men than they are at present. One gives a mother equal rights with the father in the property of the children as he is now sole heir of his child. One makes her a joint guardian as he is now sole guardian of the children; equal shares in property, revoking the will made under a subsequent marriage, giving the woman the right to any money she may earn and other interesting amendments are mentioned.

EVERY MAN SHOULD RECOGNIZE HIMSELF AS A FACTOR IN HIS HOME TOWN AND BECOME A SOLDIER OF THE COMMON GOOD. WHY NOT? WE ARE MUTUALLY DEPENDENT, EVERY ONE OF US, FROM THE SUNRISE TO THE SUNSET OF LIFE, FOR NO MAN LIVES TO OR FOR HIMSELF ALONE. THE UTTERLY SELFISH MAN IS A MISFIT IN THE SCHEME OF HUMAN EXISTENCE, IS A LIBEL UPON A BENEFICENT PROVIDENCE.

These golden words of truth are quoted from a booklet booming a town that believes in itself and is going forward with rapid strides because its people work together for the common good. Its population increased nearly 100 per cent during the past ten years, while another town similarly situated, only twenty-five miles away, has increased only about 1 per cent in thirty years. Why the difference? The other town is cut up into cliques and factions. Some sets won't trade or neighbor with other sets. The result is that thousands of dollars every month are sent out of that town for mail order purchases, whereas in the town first mentioned, where the people stick together, it has been estimated that the home merchants get about 98 per cent of the trade.

"We are mutually dependent, every one of us," remember that, and "become a soldier of the common good." Patronize home industries. Trade at home. Don't be selfish and a libel.

NORWAY PLANTS FLAG AT POLE

Captain Amundsen Reached Goal December 17

SENDS TELEGRAM TO THE KING

Though Details Are Not Given, Definite Announcement Is Made at Christiania That Hardy Norwegian Explorer Had Accomplished the Object of His Daring Expedition—It Is Said Capt. Scott Also Reached Pole.

Christiania, March 8.—The south pole has been discovered by Capt. Raold Amundsen. Definite news has been received that he reached the pole between the 14th and 17th of December. The king has received a telegram from Captain Amundsen, but the contents have not been divulged.

London, March 8.—Though the rumor persists that Captain Robert F. Scott has reached the south pole, no official word has been received from Captain Scott by the Royal Geographical society or men interested in exploration who were financial backers of Scott's dash. Nothing, even by rumor, has been heard of the Japanese Antarctic expedition under Lieutenant Shirase.

SHACKLETON TALKS

Antarctic Explorer Points Out the Probabilities in the Case.

London, March 8.—Lieutenant Sir Ernest Shackleton, the south polar explorer, commenting on Capt. Amundsen's announcement that he discovered the south pole, points out that Dec. 14 to 17 means that when he reached the geographical pole he waited three days taking noon observations, so as to accurately determine his position and exclude any uncertainty. The advantage of three days' observations, Lieutenant Shackleton explains, are these: Assuming that the explorer took a noon observation of the altitude of the sun and found he was at the pole a degree of uncertainty would exist because of the slow movements of the sun, which completes a circle with a hardly perceptible rise or fall. If an observation is taken on the second day at the same spot and the difference of the declination of the sun in its north or south path corresponds with the observation the day before, and it does this on the third day, he may safely assume that his position is accurate. If he was using the theodolite, which is undoubtedly a most accurate instrument, there is no doubt that he could ascertain the position of the pole to one mile.

Lieutenant Shackleton having in mind the conflicting earlier reports, raises the question, did Captain Scott reach the pole prior to Dec. 14? Even if he did, says the lieutenant, the same meed of praise should be awarded to Captain Amundsen as the Norwegian would grant to Captain Scott if the conditions were reversed. Lieutenant Shackleton speculates on the possibility of the two expeditions after reaching the Beardmore glacier being in touch with each other sufficiently to be aware of their respective movements or even a convergence by different routes across the glacier with a dramatic meeting at the pole.

Reading between the lines of Lieutenant Shackleton's speculations, it is evident that he is inclined to think that Amundsen's dogs and ski runners have beaten Scott's ponies and pedestrians.

Visit Has Good Effect.

Corinto, Nicaragua, March 8.—Before sailing for Anapala, Secretary Knox entertained the members of the Nicaraguan cabinet who accompanied him here at luncheon on board the cruiser Maryland. The leaders of the opposition to the government at Managua told Mr. Knox that they were convinced that he was a friend of Nicaragua and that his mission had pleased the people.

Soldiers Will Be Paid.

Peking, March 8.—The proposal to bring southern troops here to preserve order has been abandoned owing to the fear of a clash between them and the northern soldiers. Representatives of bankers of the six great powers have agreed to advance President Yuan Shih Kai $600,000 with which to pay the soldiers.

WABASH FAST TRAIN WENT INTO THE DITCH

Five Killed In Disaster In Warren County.

Danville, Ill., March 8.—By the derailment of the Continental Limited train westbound on the Wabash railroad, five persons were killed and nearly three score were injured at Redwood bridge, two miles west of West Lebanon, Ind. All the cars left the rails and some of them turned over. A broken rail is said to have caused the accident. Two of the cars rolled partly into a creek, the derailment taking place at the end of a bridge.

But two of the dead were identified. These were Mrs. U. Good of St. Louis and Mrs. R. S. Grant of Adrian, Mich. At the trestle over Redwood creek the engine struck a split rail, but passed over safely and took the tender with it. Then, with the baggage car leading, the train plunged down a steep embankment. The baggage car encountered a tree and stopped. The front end of the car was caved in and all of the cars behind it were jammed together, but they did not pile up and were not badly broken. Most of the cars in the train were of steel construction, and this fact prevented a much greater loss of life.

BY PARTY VOTE

New Jersey State Senators Condemn One of Their Number.

Trenton, N. J., March 8.—By a strict party vote of eleven Republicans and nine Democrats, Senator Richard Fitzherbert of Morris county was adjudged guilty of conduct inconsistent with the trust and duty of a senator. After reaching this verdict the senate adjourned, deciding to defer until next week its vote upon the expulsion of Senator Fitzherbert. This action was taken to permit the convicted senator to resign voluntarily if he desired.

The charges involved Senator Fitzherbert in an attempt to extort $5,000 to kill two acetylene gas bills he had introduced.

A CHAIN GUARD ON THE BORDER

Uncle Sam Going to Give Madero Material Aid.

WILL BAR SHIPMENTS OF ARMS

By Establishing a Close Patrol Along the Border This Government Will Seek to Prevent the Operations of the Rebel Junta in This Country Seeking to Overthrow the Established Government of Mexico.

Washington, March 8.—After a conference with Secretary Stimson and other members of the cabinet last evening President Taft decided to send two more regiments of troops to the Mexican border. The war department has not determined from which posts these two regiments will be drawn, but they will come from some of the posts in the northern part of the country. Orders will be issued for these 1,700 men to proceed at once for El Paso. They will reinforce the troops that are already stationed at that city under Colonel Steever of the Fourth cavalry. The two additional regiments are to relieve troops stationed at El Paso, which will be immediately hurried out for patrol duty on the border. President Taft and his war department advisers have finally decided to establish a chain guard along the border almost as strong as the one established in the recent revolution against Diaz. It is expected that the ordering of the two new regiments to the border is only the forerunner of the movement of further troops. It is likely, however, that the movement of troops will be very gradual.

The decision to establish a chain guard along the border represents an effort on the part of the president and his advisers to lend Madero a helping hand in preventing the carrying of firearms and ammunition into Mexico from the United States for the rebel forces. Madero has complained bitterly of the help that the revolutionists have obtained in this way, and the president and his advisers have decided to do everything possible to remove this cause of irritation.

CAPITAL IN DANGER

Madero May Appeal to Foreigners to Raise a Regiment.

Mexico City, March 8.—It is reported that President Madero is about to issue an appeal to foreigners to form a regiment to help in the defense of the city from attack. It is not believed that such an appeal would be successful. There are only 1,600 troops and 600 police here now, and it is doubtful if they would fight to defend foreigners. The latter are putting iron bars on their doors and windows.

It is reported that General Hernandez, with 300 federals has fought and defeated a force of rebels near Mexico. Two hundred rebels are said to have been killed. The federal loss was twenty.

A Hint as to Maple Syrup.

Indianapolis, March 8.—In reply to numerous inquiries from farmers over the state who are planning to make maple syrup this year for the market, H. E. Barnard, chief chemist for the state board of health, has replied that such syrup will be regarded as adulterated when it contains anything added to the original sap. In the past it has been the practice to add sugar and glucose to increase the volume of the product. Reports to the department indicate a heavy yield of sap.

Hoch Succeeds Arnold.

Indianapolis, March 8.—Henry Hoch of Rockport was appointed bank examiner in the banking department of the office of the auditor of state. Mr. Hoch succeeds C. L. ## PRACTICALLY KILLS ARBITRATION BILLS

Senate Action Came as a Bit of a Surprise.

Washington, March 8.—By amending them to such an extent that they are practically emasculated, the senate has practically killed the general arbitration treaty bills. The vote was a surprise, as advocates of the treaty were confident of success. The defeat of the treaties was made possible by the Democrats voting solidly and with the assistance of a few progressive senators and Senator Lorimer of Illinois.

Senators Lodge, Root and Burton all agree that the treaties will not be accepted by foreign nations in the form in which they were finally ratified. On the final vote of ratification in the senate only three votes were cast against the treaties, and these were by Senators Reed of Missouri and Martine of New Jersey, Democrats, and Senator Lorimer of Illinois, Republican.

Immediately after the disposition of the treaties the senate agreed by unanimous consent to vote on the case of Senator Isaac Stephenson on Monday, March 25.

The senate eliminated from the pending treaties with France and England the vital paragraph relating to the joint high commission, and otherwise curtailed their scope. Advisers of the administration acknowledge that the treaties are dead and that they probably will never be submitted in their present mangled form to France and England for ratification. Not only this, but negotiations that were already under way for similar treaties with Germany, Switzerland, Japan and possibly one or two other countries, are knocked in the head.

There was great rejoicing among the Roosevelt supporters as soon as the vote on the important joint commission clause became known, and Senator Dixon hurriedly sent a telegram informing the colonel that the senate had sustained the Roosevelt view of the treaties.

SEIZED THE LEADER

Florida Mob Dispersed When Sheriff Showed His Mettle.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 8.—Seeking to lynch five negroes who are charged with the murder of Samuel Silverstein and with assault on his wife and two daughters, a mob surrounded the county jail last night. The members of the mob were armed and many of them carried sledge hammers with which to break into the jail.

The sheriff threw a force of deputies into the jail and all the military companies in the city were summoned. A fire alarm also was turned in and the water was turned on in an effort to scatter the mob.

The mob stormed the police and threw stones at the windows of the jail. The mob was led to the jail by a woman who called on the men to follow her and avenge the outrage on the Silverstein family. The woman got to the jail door, when she was seized by an officer and jerked inside. The deputies and police then presented Winchester rifles and the mob dispersed, evidently being at a loss without their Amazon leader.

Gilbert is to be executed in April for the murder of Daniel Miller, a hotel keeper.

In order to thoroughly introduce their medicated Royal Cuticle Doctor Soap, the Royal Soap Company has selected and appointed the most popular store in each city through which to offer the greatest soap bargain ever offered in America, and incidentally make one of the most unique and picturesque displays ever shown.

Instead of distributing small free samples to each family, the manufacturers allow us during this event to sell one 25c cake for 10c and three cakes for 25c, and not more than six cakes to one person.

This Royal Cuticle Soap is the cleanest, purest, softest and most soothing you could put on your hands or face. It is sold everywhere under another trade mark at 25c a cake. You should get a half dozen cakes at the introductory price, which we will make for a short time while the exhibit is in our window.

Hopples Doomed.

Members of the American Trotting Association, at the biennial meeting of that organization held in Chicago, made drastic rulings against the use of hopples. The association ruled:

1. That hopples will not be allowed on any horse four years old or under during the 1913 racing season.
2. That hopples will not be allowed on any horse five years old or under during the 1912 racing season.
3. That hopples will not be allowed on any horse six years old or under during the 1914 racing season.

This action, with a change of rule, regarding points, was the principal business decided by the meeting. The new rule on points is:

"In deciding the rank of a horse, the winter of two heats in a two in three race, or the winner of three heats in a five heat race, shall be entitled to first money.

"In deciding the rank of horses other than the winner, the horse having the smallest total number of points in the summary is entitled to second money and the next smallest to third money and the next to fourth money.

"A dead heat shall count one for each horse making it, but where a deciding heat is necessary the horses starting in such deciding heat shall be entitled to first and second money according to their position in that heat."

Albert Kasting, Noble Hayes, O. O. Swails, Lyman Gruber, Judge Shea, Leroy Miller, W. H. Burkley and N. Speier went to Brownstown this morning.

Mrs. Taylor Pruden of Cortland was here this afternoon on her way to Indianapolis to visit Mrs. Pearl DeGolyer.

WOMEN DEMAND SUFFRAGE PLANK

Want Both Parties to Indorse Votes for Women.

WILL INVADE CONVENTIONS

Both the Leading Political Parties Will Be Asked in Their Coming Conventions to Insert in Their Respective State Platforms a Plank Declaring in Favor of Giving Women Right to Vote.

Indianapolis, March 8.—The Restricted Equal Suffrage association and the Woman's Franchise league of this city will ask both political parties to insert in their state platforms a plank declaring in favor of giving women the right to vote. Plans along this line have been developing for several months. Some time ago the Central Labor union of Indianapolis indorsed the fight being waged by the Restricted Equal Suffrage association, and pledged its moral, political and financial support to the movement. It also appointed a committee of five members to co-operate with the executive committee of the association in working for woman suffrage.

A joint meeting of the executive committee and the committee from the Central Labor union will be held tonight at the home of Dr. Hannah M. Graham for the purpose of discussing the plans for the work. It is expected that these committees will decide to go before the resolutions committees of the Republican and Democratic state conventions and urge the adoption of a plank indorsing the woman suffrage idea. It is the hope of those behind the movement to induce both parties to adopt such a plank. The Woman's Franchise league also is expected to take similar action at its next meeting.

HERE'S GOOD NEWS

Indiana Gas Field Reported to Be Tapping on New Life.

Noblesville, March 8.—There was a vivid reminder of the palmy days of natural gas in this county twenty years ago when a gas well on the Ault farm took on new life and began producing gas at the rate of 500,000 feet every twenty-four hours.

The well was drilled twenty-one years ago and abandoned in 1900. It was cleaned out a few days ago, but there wasn't sufficient gas to justify the work, and it was again abandoned. Later escaping gas from the well shot forty feet into the air.

Other wells in the same locality are being cleaned out.

PARENTS WERE ABSENT

Children Play With Fire and One Is Burned to Death.

Columbus, Ind., March 8.—Virgil, the seventeen-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, was burned to death at their home in Nineveh township, Bartholomew county. The child and his four-year-old brother were left in a room together while the father and mother were doing the evening work at the barn. The children played with fire in the kitchen stove. When Mrs. Anderson returned to the house the baby's clothing was burned off and the body was almost a crisp. The older boy's clothing was in flames, but he was rescued before his body was seriously burned.

Trail Ended at River.

Connersville, Ind., March 8.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance from home of John Walsh, aged twenty-seven, who was last seen at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. At daybreak his hat and coat were found on the west bank of White Water, a mile from his home. Tracks led from the end of the river bridge to this point, over the bank and into the stream, but no foot-prints were found coming out.

Man Assessed For 23 Dogs.

Sullivan, Ind., March 8.—James Bradbury, a painter of this city, has the record for the number of dogs owned in Sullivan. Alva Haddon, township assessor, visited Bradbury's home to assess his property and was met at the front veranda by a yelping pack of dogs. The tax man counted twenty-three. Bradbury's dog tax alone will cost him more than $40.

Death in the Pipe Smoke.

Richmond, Ind., March 8.—William McDonald, aged eighty-seven, is dead at his home near Centerville from burns received a few days ago when he accidentally set fire to his clothing. In lighting his pipe he dropped the match on the floor. A newspaper was ignited and McDonald's clothing took fire also. Before assistance reached him he was dead.

Negro Murderer Convicted.

Indianapolis, March 8.—The jury in criminal court found Thomas B. Shouse, colored, guilty of murder in the second degree and Judge Markey will sentence him to life imprisonment at Michigan City. Shouse shot and killed John Stratton, colored, Jan. 27, 1912, after the men had had trouble over a pool game in a saloon in Indianapolis.

WILL MAKE TEST OF GARNISHEE STATUTE

New Law Exerted Against Elwood Offenders.

Anderson, Ind., March 8.—Accused of oppressive garnishment, Grant Anderson and George L. Parker, grocers, of Elwood, were found guilty by a circuit court jury. The verdict carried a fine of $20 each against the defendants. They at once filed a motion for a new trial.

They were charged with having disposed of accounts against two tinplate workers of Elwood to a collection agency in Ohio county, West Virginia, which garnished wages of the men named in the accounts.

Prosecuting Attorney Shuman was assisted by B. H. Campbell, attorney for the Elwood plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, whose office had been annoyed considerably and had to install additional books to keep a record of wages garnished through the West Virginia agency. Mr. Campbell assisted, he said, in the draft of a bill passed by the last legislature making the transfer of accounts from Indiana for collection by garnishee a criminal act.

When My Dreams Come True

James Whitcomb Riley

WHEN my dreams come true—
when my dreams come true—
Shall I lean from out my casement, in the starlight and the dew,
To listen—smile and listen to the tinkle of the strings
Of the sweet guitar my lover's fingers
fondle, as he sings?
And as the nude moon slowly, slowly
shoulders into view,
Shall I vanish from his vision—
when my dreams come true?

WHEN my dreams come true—
shall the simple gown I wear
Be changed to softest satin,
and my maiden-braided hair
Beraveled into flossy mists of rarest,
fairest gold,
To be minted into kisses, more than any heart can hold?—
Or "the summer of my tresses" shall my lover liken to
"The fervor of his passion"—when my dreams come true?

Sunday School Lesson

MARCH 10, 1912.

JESUS THE HEALER. Mark 1:29-45; Matt. 4:23-25.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Himself took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses.—Matt. 8:17.

The events of this lesson, the healing of the fever stricken and all manner of diseased people and spirit possessed people and the healing of a leper, are all samples of the kingdom which was at hand, but which did not come because they would not have Him. Verse 39 of our lesson summarizes it briefly. "He preached in their synagogues throughout all Galilee and cast out demons." It is more fully stated in Matt. iv. 23. "And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the gospel of the kingdom and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people." It was predicted by the prophets that in the kingdom the blind would see, the deaf hear, the dumb sing, the lame leap as a hart, and no one complain because of sickness, for iniquity would be forgiven (Isa. xxxiii. 24; xxxv. 5, 6). It was also predicted that in the kingdom wolves and lambs, leopards and kids, calves and lions, cows and bears and little children would all live in peace together (Isa. xi. 6, 9; lvi. 25). No one seems to expect these last mentioned things until Jesus shall come again, but many are wondering why they cannot be healed of all diseases even though the kingdom has not come. They ask often complainingly, "Is not the body as well as the soul included in the atonement?" Yes; the great atonement will reach the body, too, and in the resurrection these bodies of our humiliation will be fashioned like His glorious body, but till then we must wait patiently in strength or weakness, as He may in His infinite love and wisdom decide. Some are healed by His hand without a physician and some by His blessing upon the physician's skill and medicine, while some continue in weakness, and many are passing out from the mortal body. The truly devout soul says under all circumstances, "Even so, Father," and rejoices in the perfect will of God.

Our lesson verses 29 to 31 tell of His going from the synagogue to the home of Simon and Andrew, where Simon's wife's mother lay sick of a fever. He took her by the hand, rebuked the fever, and immediately she was well and ministered to them. Compare the ministry of angels in verse 13. Think of Samuel as a little boy ministering to the Lord (1 Sam. iii. 1) and let all our service be "unto the Lord" and "before the Lord." Possibly more might be healed if He saw that they would minister unto Him, for He is seeking in every way to bring people unto Himself that He may fill them with His fullness (Ex. xix. 4; 1 Pet. iii. 18).

Verses 32 to 34 tell of all manner of diseased and demon possessed people being brought to Him to be healed, and it is written here and in the parallel accounts in Matthew and Luke that He laid His hands on every one of them and healed them (Luke iv. 40); that He cast out the spirits with His word and healed all that were sick, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Isaiah the prophet, saying, "Himself took our infirmities and bare our sicknesses" (Matt. viii. 16, 17; Isa. liii. 4). If they had only received Him as their Messiah the Lord would have made bare His back and the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth should have seen the salvation of our God (Isa. lii. 10), but because He is still the despised and rejected one of Israel we continue in faith and patience to wait for His return. He needs no testimony from His adversaries, so He suffered not the demons to speak even though they said, "Thou art Christ, the Son of God."

Lesson verses 35 to 39 tell of His early morning praying a great while before day, having gone off to a solitary place. Since He felt the need of being away from even these few disciples that He might the better commune with His Father, how can we know much of real communion with God in the constantly busy life that so many lead? It is true that we can pray to God anywhere and at any time, but see how He went away alone. Simon and the others found Him and told Him that people were looking for Him; then He said, "Let us go into the next town." "I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also." We must not forget that "the field is the world" and our orders are, "Go ye into all the world." The four lepers of Samaria should put us to shame with their words: "We do not well. This day is a day of good tidings, and we hold our peace" (11 Kings vii. 9). Our lesson chapter closes with the record of a healed leper who published and blazed abroad the fact of his being healed so widely that Jesus had to stay away from the cities, and the people came to Him from every quarter. He is still the same Jesus, full of compassion as when He said to that leper, "I will, be thou clean," and as quickly as the leper was healed immediately just as quickly can a sinner be saved. Without money and without price He gives eternal life to all who receive Him. The strange thing is that those who profess to have been saved by Him have not the zeal of this leper nor gratitude enough to tell others the glad tidings.

THE LESSON QUIZ.

Jesus the Healer. Mark 1:29-45; Matt. iv. 23-25.

Golden Text—Himself took our infirmities, and bare our sicknesses. Matt. viii. 17.

(1.) Verses 29-31—If this sickness of Peter's wife mother had been that of any other woman would Jesus have been equally interested?

(2.) What benefit is it to us to tell God when our loved ones are sick?

(3.) Verses 32-34—Is there any reason to expect that God, in these days, will heal our sick in any way resembling the manner in which Jesus healed sick people?

(4.) How do you account for the fact that the devils all seemed to know Jesus?

(5.) Verse 35—Why was it necessary for Jesus to get up a great while before day and, in a solitary place, engage in protracted prayer?

(6.) To what extent is it duty or privilege for every Christian to follow the example of Jesus in the matter of protracted private prayer?

(7.) Would you say that Jesus had certain set times for prayer, or did He pray only when he felt the need, and which method ought we to adopt?

(8.) Verses 36-37—Did Simon and the rest of them do well to disturb Jesus in his private prayer, or should they have waited until his return? Give your reasons.

(9.) Verse 38—What is the difference between the mission of Jesus and that of any one of his true followers?

(10.) Verse 39—Should a man with a special message confine his work to one church or to one town? Give your reasons.

(11.) Verses 40-42—If Jesus were preaching in the flesh today would he pay the same attention to the cure of physical diseases as he did in that day or would he refer them to the physicians and surgeons?

(12.) In view of the progress of medical science and the marvelous feats of surgery would you say that God's present plan for the cure of sickness is by these scientific methods? Give your reasons.

(13.) If it is God's plan now to cure sickness by human methods, why did Jesus in his day cure people miraculously?

(14.) Christ in that day was moved with compassion by individual cases of sickness and cured them miraculously. Why does he not do the same thing when appealed to today?

(15.) Verses 43-45—Which is the greater sin, and why, to tell a thing when God tells us not to do so or not to tell what he bids us make known?

(16.) Matt. iv. 23-25—Is it a lack of faith on the part of preachers today that they cannot cure physical diseases, or is it because God wants to cure them through medical science? Why?

(17.) What is God's attitude toward those who teach that it is His will now to cure disease, in answer to prayer, without the use of the means? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Lesson for Sunday, March 17, 1912. The Paralytic Forgiven and Healed. Mark ii. 1-12.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Independent Beggar.

William E. Kilgannon, clerk of the juvenile court, found out Saturday afternoon that some men beg because they do not wish to work. An agile fellow, fairly well dressed, was about the courthouse asking for "just a dime." He "struck" Kilgannon.

"I won't give you any money," said Kilgannon, "but I can get you a good job." Kilgannon remembered that a manufacturer had called him over the phone a short time before and told him he was in need of a good man. He said he would pay $1.75 a day.

Kilgannon had taken the receiver from the telephone and was about to tell the manufacturer he had found a man for him when the beggar asked how much the job would pay. Kilgannon told him.

"I wouldn't work for anybody for that," said the beggar.

"All right," replied Kilgannon, "get out of here."—Indianapolis News.

OSLER RIGHT; YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

Gray Hair Is First Sign of Age. Harmless Remedy Restores to Natural Color.

Osler isn't the only man who turns down old age. In the business world the "young man" is always the one who picks the plums. It is an age of "new thought," "new talent," etc., and the old man is passed by in the race.

One of the first signs of coming age is the appearance of gray hairs. When you see them, act promptly. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will correct this sign, which so often deceives people into thinking that age is really upon them. It is a well-known fact that Sage and Sulphur will darken the hair. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur combines these old-time remedies with other agents, which remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize the druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't look old before your time. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and see what an improvement it will make in the appearance of your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

A FALSE CRY

Peace Not Always Indicative of Prosperity

PEACE is a good thing, but peace in the ordinary sense of the word is not the summum bonum of human happiness or usefulness. Rest and freedom from pain are comforting to the sick, and may be signs of approaching dissolution. Peace in a community may indicate prosperity, or it may be insensibility to duty and indifference to fraud and political corruption. A man freezing to death or under the influence of some poison needs to be roused and kept moving. Some communities need nothing so much as to be waked up and forced to fight for good government.

Peace in the church may mean prosperity or decay. It is written in the Acts: "Then had the churches rest," "and walking in the fear of the Lord and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost were multiplied." This was after a period of persecution and steadfast contention for the faith. There have been other times when the church had rest because it was asleep to its duty.

Righteousness First.

The command to "contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints" does not indicate that Christians in a world of sin are to expect or be satisfied with peace until righteousness is established. So long as God has a controversy with men, controversy is the duty of the church. So long as immorality and infidelity exist, the church has a mission to oppose them. Often its greatest need is for some one to stand, as did the prophet of old, and call men to line up. "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." When this call is heard there are always some to plead for peace. "Art thou he that troublest Israel?" No, the men who trouble the Israel of God are those who promote immorality and infidelity, who belittle the word of God and deny the doctrines of grace; and very often these cry "Peace, peace," when they themselves are disturbing the peace.

When men in the church deny God as the Creator, or that Christ is God, or that he died on Calvary as a sacrifice for sinners and rose from the dead, or that the Scriptures are inspired and true, the church has a controversy with them, and woe be to it if, through fear of man or love of ease or for any other cause, it shrinks from its duty.

Danger of the Church.

The greatest danger of the church is, its insensibility to the beginnings of unsound doctrine. It credits loose teachers with being better than they seem. It says of them, as a minister said of a student who seemed to deny the atonement, "He does not mean it, and, at any rate, he will get over it when he gets to work." It strains its charity beyond the scripture point. It does not heed the exhortation of John, the apostle of love and peace: "If there come any unto you and bring not this doctrine, receive him not."

A writer, describing a visit to the home of Henry Ward Beecher, speaks of a painting which Mr. Beecher showed him, representing a huge mastiff asleep near something he had been left to guard, and a lap-dog quietly drawing it away. "That," said he, pointing to the mastiff, "is Orthodoxy, and the little dog is Heterodoxy." If ever the church needed to be awake, it is now.—Herald and Presbyter.

Don't Look for Flaws.

A large part of our own failures in life comes from seeing flaws and failures in others that we do not need to see at all. The keen-sighted pessimist does a great deal more harm than even the easily fooled, often mistaken optimist. For the man who looks for flaws in other people's lives usually leaves those flaws worse than when he found them, by the notice and attention that he gives to them; and this leaves him worse off himself. The man who lives so much in the sunshine that he won't see other people's flaws helps those flaws to die, and gathers new sunshine and strength in so doing.

"Don't look for flaws as you go through life; and even when you find them, 'Tis wise and kind to be somewhat blind, and Look for the virtues behind them."

Virtue-hunting means virtue-finding; and the right things that we hunt for most eagerly we add constantly to ourselves. But the best part of this getting is that it is all in the interest of others.

The Greatest Race.

Out of the chaos of our social system, out of intense greed for wealth and power, out of our shattered morals will come a mightier and greater race, the highest the world has ever known.—Rev. H. C. Swearingen, Presbyterian, St. Paul.

Love.

It is human nature to love and to love truly, and a way should be provided for those young persons who are unable to make love to each other save in the street.—Rev. J. D. Peters, Disciple, Hoboken.

HALF A CHANCE

By Frederic S. Isham,

Author of "The Strollers," "Under the Rose," "The Lady of the Mount," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1909, BY THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

A gripping story having to do with the most vital forces that affect the human being; a thrilling narrative of the combat of an American against the worm eaten aristocracy of the old world---as such may the novel "Half a Chance" be briefly described. The brilliantly drawn characters, typical of London, range from Jocelyn Wray, the beautiful young debutante, sought and worshiped by a score of noblemen, to Tom Rogers, the brutish filcher, highwayman and debased magsman. A feature of the story is the influence that can be exerted on her associates of low and high degree by the sweetness, simplicity and purity of a little girl. She was confident that there was something good in a man, no matter how low he might have sunk. She set out to prove it. The manner of her endeavor and the events associated with it go to make the story one of rare fascination. And the vivid pen picture of the struggle of a great human spirit to emerge from the abyssal depths of wrong living and degradation will long be imprinted on the memory of the reader.

CHAPTER I.

MR. GILLET'S CHARGE.

"B"Y all means, m'deah, let's go down between decks and have a look at them."

"Of course, if you wish, Sir Charles, although—Do you think we shall be edified, Mr. Gillett?"

"That depends, m'lady"—and the speaker, a man with official manners and ferret-like eyes, shifted from one foot to another—"on what degree or particular class of criminal your ladyship would be interested in. If in the ordinary category of skittle sharper or thimblegriger," with a suspicion of mild scorn, "then I do not imagine your ladyship would find much attraction in the present cargo. But, on the other hand," in a livelier tone, "if your ladyship has any curiosity—or shall we say a psychological bent—regarding the real out and outer the excursion should be to your liking, for," rubbing his hands, "a proper lot of cut-throats and bad magsmen it has never been my privilege to escort across the equator, and this is my sixth trip to Australia."

"How interesting—how very interesting!" The lady's voice floated languidly. "Sir Charles is quite right. We must really go down. At any rate, it will be a change after having been shut up so long in that terrible state-room."

"One moment, m'lady. There's a little formality that must be observed first. No one allowed on the prisoners' deck without the captain's permission. There he is now."

"Then be good enough to beckon to him," said the lady.

But this Mr. Gillett, agent of the police, discreetly declined to do. Captain Macpherson was a man not to be beckoned to by any one, much less by him.

"Sir Charles and lady and Sir Charles' party have expressed, Captain Macpherson, the desire to obtain permission to visit the prisoners' deck," said Gillett.

Captain Macpherson looked toward Sir Charles and his lady, the other passengers lounging around them, a little girl at the rail, her hair blown windward, a splash of gold against the blue sky. "What for?" said the skipper brusquely.

"To have a look at the convicts, I suppose."

"What good'll that do them?" growled the commander. "Idle curiosity—that's what I call it. Well, go along and keep them away from the bars. The weather has not improved the tempers of a few of the rascals, and they'd like naught better than a chance for their claws."

"Thanks for the permission, and," a little stiffly, "the admonition, which latter," turning away, "a man whose lifelong profession has been dealing with convicts is most likely to stand in need of and heed."

"May I go too?"

The child with the golden hair desired in her occupation of watching the flying fish and other real winged creatures and, leaving the rail, walked toward the group that was about to follow Mr. Gillett. She was a very beautiful girl of ten or eleven, slim, delicately fashioned, of a definite proud

"Why, of course," interposed a blase, cynical appearing young man who had just emerged from the cabin. "Don't know where she wants to go or what she wants to do, but don't say she can't; really you mustn't, now."

"Well, since you insist on spoiling her, Lord Ronsdale!"

He twisted a blond mustache which adorned a handsome face that bore many marks of what is called experience of the world. "Couldn't do that! Besides, Jocelyn and I are great chums, don't you know. We're going to be married some day when she grows up."

"Are we?" said the child. "The man I marry must be very big and strong and must not have light hair."

Lord Ronsdale laughed tolerantly. "Plenty of time for you to change your mind, don't you know. Meanwhile I'll not despair. Faint heart, and so on. But," turning to Sir Charles, "where is it she wants to go?"

"To see the convicts."

"Convicts? Ah!" He spoke rather more quickly than usual, with accent sharper.

"You didn't know who your neighbors were going to be when you decided so suddenly to accompany us?"

"No." His voice had a metallic sound.

Sir Charles addressed Mr. Gillett. "Tell us something more definite about your charges whom we are going to inspect. Meant to have found out earlier in the voyage, but been so jolly seaisick, what with one gale after another, I for one until now haven't much cared whether we had Claude Duval and Dick Turpin themselves for neighbors or whether we all went straight to Davy Jones' locker together. A bad let, you have already informed us, but how bad?"

"Well, we haven't exactly M. Duval or Mr. Turpin in the pen, but we've one or two others almost as celebrated in their way. There's Billy Burke, as desperate a cracksmen as the country can produce, with," complacently, "a record second to none in his class. He"—And Mr. Gillett, with considerable zest entered into the details of Mr. Burke's eventful and rapacious career. "Then there's the 'Frisco Pet,' or the 'Pride of Golden Gate,' as some of the sporting papers call him."

"The 'Frisco Pet'?" Lord Ronsdale started; his color slightly changed; his lashes drooped over his cold eyes. "He is on board this vessel?"

"Yes. You remember him, my lord. I dare say?"

"In common with many others," shortly.

"Why," asked Jocelyn, "did they call him such a funny name—the Frisco Pet?"

"Because he's a Yankee bruiser, prizefighter, or was before the drink got him," explained Mr. Gillett. "Some one brought him to London, found out about his 'talents' and put him in training. He was a low, ignorant sailor—could scarcely write his own name—but he had biceps and a thick head. Didn't know when he was whipped. I can see him yet as he used to look, with his giant shoulders and his swagger, as he stepped into the ring. There was no nonsense about him or his fist—could break a board with that. And how the shouts used to go up! 'The pet!—a quid on the pet!—ten bob on the stars and stripes!'—meaning the costume he wore. Oh, he was a favorite in Camden Town! But one night he failed them—met some friends from the forecastle of a Yankee trader that had dropped down the Thames—went into the ring with a stagger added to the swagger. Well, they took him out unconscious. Never was a man worse punished. He never got back to the sawdust, and the sporting gentlemen lost a bright and shining light."

"Broke his heart, I suppose," observed Sir Charles.

The police agent proceeded. "After that it was a case of the rum and the toss pots, and when he was three sheets in the wind look out for squalls. He got put in quad, broke out and overpowered and nearly killed two guards. Took to various means of livelihood until they got him again. Trouble in prison and transferred to the solitary, with a little punishment thrown in for a reminder. When he got out of limbo again he lived in bad company in one of the tunnels near the Adelphi. Hard place for the police to ront a cove from. He made it quite interesting for the police—quite interesting. So much so he attracted me, and I concluded to take a hand."

Mr. Gillett paused. Obviously in his case egotism allied to enthusiasm made his duties a pleasure. He seemed now briefly commending himself in his own mind. "Up to this time," he resumed, "our friend the ex-pugilist had never actually killed any one but soon after I engaged myself to look after him word was brought to the department that a poor woman had been murdered, a cheap music hall dancer. She had seen better days, however."

Lord Ronsdale, who had been looking away, yawned, as if finding the police agent "wordy," then strolled to the rail.

"Suspicion pointed strongly in his direction, and we got him after a struggle. It was a hard fight, without a referee, and maybe we used him a little rough, but we had to. Then Dandy Joe was brought in. Joe's a plain, mean little gambler and race track follower with courage not big enough for broad operations. But he had a wide knowledge of what we term the thieves' catcombs, and, well, he peached on the big fellow—gave testimony that was of great service to the prosecution. The case seemed clear enough. There was some sort of contrary evidence put in, but it didn't amount to anything. His record was against him, and he got a heavy sentence, with death as the penalty if he ever sets foot in England again."

Sir Charles assisted his lady from her chair. "Coming, Ronsdale?"

"Believe I won't go down," drawled the nobleman at the rail. "Air better up here," he explained.

Sir Charles laughed, got together the other members of his party, and all followed Mr. Gillett to a narrow companionway. There a strong iron door stopped their progress; but, taking a key from his pocket, the police agent thrust it into a great padlock, gave it a turn and swung back the barrier. Before them stretched a long aisle, at each end of which stood a soldier with a musket. On one side were the cells, small, heavily barred.

Mr. Gillett peered into the cells at his charges with a keen, bright gaze that had in it something of the animal tamer's zest for his part.

"Well, how are we all today?" he observed in his most animated manner to the guard. "All doing well?"

"No. 6 complained of being ill, but I say it's only the dumps. No. 14 has been garrulous."

"Garrulous, eh? Not a little flighty?"

The guard nodded. Mr. Gillett whispered a few instructions and asked a number of other questions. Meanwhile the child had paused before one of the cells and, fascinated, was gazing within. What was it that held her the pity of the spectacle, the terror of it? Her blue eyes continued to rest on the convict, a young fellow of no more than one-and-twenty of magnificent proportions, but with face sullen and brutish. For his part he looked at her open mouthed, with an expression of stupid surprise at the sight of the figure so daintily and slenderly fashioned, at the tangles of bright golden hair that seemed to have imprisoned some of the sunshine from above.

"Well, I'm blowed!" he muttered hoarsely. "Where'd you come from? Looks like one o' them bally Christmas dolls had dropped off some counter in Fleet street and got in here by mistake!"

A mist sprang to the blue eyes. She held her white, pretty fingers tight against her breast. "It must be terrible here," she said falteringly.

The convict laughed harshly. "Hell!" he said laconically.

The child trembled. "I'm sorry," she managed to say.

The fierce dark eyes stared at her. "What for?"

"Because you have to stay here."

"Well, I'm—" But this time he apparently found no adequate adjective. "If this ain't the rummiest Christmas doll!"

She put out her hand. "Here's something for you, poor man," she said as steadily as she could. "It's my King George gold piece, date 1762, and belonged to my father, who wore it on his watch chain and who is dead. Perhaps they'll let you buy something with it."

He looked at the hand. "If she ain't stickin' out her duke to me right through the bars! Blamed if she ain't! Looks like a lily—a bally white lily," he repeated wonderingly, "one of them kind we won't run across when the cap turned up adrift on an island jest to waller in green grass!"

"Don't you want it?" said the child.

He extended a great, coarse hand hesitatingly, as if half minded to and half minded not to touch the white finger tips.

"You ain't afraid?"

The golden head shook ever so slightly. Again the big hand went toward the small one, then suddenly dropped.

"Right this way, m'lord—m'lady!" The face of the convict abruptly changed. Fury, hatred, a blind instinct to kill, were unmistakably revealed in his countenance as he heard the bland voice of the police agent. From the child's hand the gold disk fell and rolled under the wooden slab that served as a couch in the cell.

"Good heavens!" Mr. Gillett seized the girl's arm and abruptly drew her away. "My dear little lady," he said, "really you don't know the danger you run. And near that cell of all of them!"

"That cell?" observed Sir Charles. "Then that is—"

"The convict I was telling you about—the 'Pet of Frisco,' the 'Pride of Golden Gate.'"

ONE AMERICAN AMONG THEM

Clement Shorter Names Thomas A. Edison as One of Ten Greatest Men of Age.

"Doubtless," writes Clement Shorter, in the Strand, "there are many great men living in the world today—men with prospective greatness, that is, or even achieved greatness—but only time can decide. In my judgment, there is no man in the world today who is great in any walk of life in so striking a way that his contemporaries can unhesitatingly proclaim him great. History has proclaimed the elder Pitt a great man, but not so certainly his son. It has not assigned his epithet to Palmerston or Peel, and it is too early yet to decide whether it will concede it to Gladstone or Disraeli. The great man is surely he who, by force of genius, has impressed himself upon his age in some permanent form. Whether the achievements of Mr. Roosevelt or of Emperor William are of this character had better be decided a century hence. As you ask me, however, to join in what can scarcely be a serious discussion, I suggest that we take the name of a living man from each country who has, by invention or creation, stamped himself upon his age. I therefore nominate the ten greatest men of the present day as follows:

"Great Britain, Thos. Hardy; Great Britain, Lord Lister; United States, Thomas A. Edison; Italy, Guglielmo Marconi; Italy, Giacomo Puccini; France, Francois Coppee; Austria, Richard Strauss; Germany, Hermann Sudermann; Belgium, Maurice Maeterlinck; Russia, Elle Metchnikoff."

A WARNING TO MANY.

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Health Statistics.

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. According to health statistics, Bright's disease which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, caused nearly ten thousand deaths in 1910, in the state of New York alone. Therefore it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and they will gladly forward it to you absolutely free, by mail.

Swamp-Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c. and $1.00.

The Onlooker

By WILBUR D. NESBIT

You know Amos Skidjums—he's the friend of yours
Who has eyes that only see your faults;
Amos has the sort of friendship that endures
And that for your helping never halts;
Amos tells you kindly—tells you quickly, too—
If he thinks you're looking rather bad;
Amos always comes in when you're glum and blue,
And to find you so makes Amos glad.

Amos Skidjums sometimes hears somebody say
Something as to you or what you've done,
Something in a genial, complimenting way—
Amos merely waits till they've begun;
Then he interrupts them, says no doubt they're right,
But that when folk come to know you well
They know then you've not been ever what you might
And you never will be, truth to tell.

Amos feels so for you, he is filled with pain
When he sees the many ways you fail;
Amos will not praise you, that would make you vain—
Amos always brings a gloomy tale.
O, if anybody takes a fling at you,
Amos Skidjums comes on happy feet,
Bursts right in upon you with a wild hurroo
That at once he may the roast repeat.

You know Amos Skidjums—he of gleeful smile,
When he says he's heard somebody knock,
When he comes to see you with his gentle guile
Just to give your vanity a shock.
Amos thinks that friendship is a means to help
If its functions are but understood;
That is why he brings you every little yelp
From your foer, for that is for your good.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

"Miranda," said the mistress, "you are a good cook, and I just know that you are too good for us to keep. Some man will come along one of these days and induce you to marry him."

"O, no, mum," answered Miranda, fervently. "I've lived with you and your husband too long to want to ever get married."

There are two conclusions to be drawn from the reply of the faithful servant; one is that she was loyal to her employers, the other is as it may be.

His Dilemma.

The gallant man who had been criticised for his attentions to the beautiful woman found himself in a dilemma. At a ball he danced with her three times to show that he could be courteous.

"That is very suspicious," said the gossips.

This being brought to his ears, at the next ball he did not dance with her. Immediately the gossips whispered:

"This is more suspicious. See, he is trying to avoid suspicion."

Sound Alike.

"It puzzles me, indeed," says our friend, the heavy thinker, mopping his beaded brow.

"What puzzles you?" we ask, as is expected of us.

"I was just wondering if an eton jacket is in the same class as a dinner coat."

Society Drama.

"You would make a newer drama appeal exclusively to the upper ten?" sarcastically asks the manager.

"How?"

"Instead of capping the climax," answers the aspiring author, "I should bonnet it with a creation from Paris."

PAINTER IN HIS OLD AGE

Retired Rear Admiral Wins Distinction With His Landscapes Done in Water Colors.

Rear Admiral Charles Henry Davis, who retired from active service in the United States navy four years ago, has thirty-two paintings on exhibition in the Corcoran Art gallery at Washington, D. C., which is one of the finest public galleries in America and one in which the knights of the palette and brush consider it quite a triumph to have their pictures exhibited. To a singular genius he has added painstaking industry, and has pushed himself up into an enviable place among the best landscape painters in water colors in this country.

At a time in life when he was supposed to have finished his mission, and to be allowed to go back and sit down in a corner and be very still, the old hero of the Civil war and Spanish-American war appears as virile in his intellect as he was at thirty, and has become a master of art, reveling in a realm of beauty, and transferring the beauty from his own soul to canvas, to delight and bless his fellows. What a beautiful example this grizzled old veteran and this delicate artist set to old men who think there is nothing left for them to do.—The Christian Herald.

Many Driven From Home.

Every year, in many parts of the country, thousands are driven from their homes by coughs and lung diseases. Friends and business are left behind for other climates, but this is costly and not always sure. A better way—the way of multitudes—is to use Dr. King's New Discovery and cure yourself at home. Stay right there, with your friends, and take this safe medicine. Throat and lung troubles find quick relief and health returns. Its help in coughs, colds, grip, croup, whooping-cough and sore lungs make it a positive blessing. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by The Andrews Drug Co.

How She Got Fresh Eggs.

A young lady living in a small city had impaired her health by too confining work in a city office. Her physician ordered her to a sanitarium for rest and upbuilding, and when she returned to work he instructed her to eat four fresh laid eggs daily; two eggs for breakfast and the others raw in milk. Finding it difficult to obtain dependably fresh eggs she persuaded her mother to permit her having a small flock in the home yard. A portable house was purchased and fifteen pullets installed in it. A small brother was paid ten cents a week to feed and care for the flock, two bags of ready-mixed food were bought and the result of the venture was not only all the eggs the young lady needed and a supply for the family, but there was a surplus which found a ready market at the corner drug store, bringing ten cents a dozen above the market price.—The Christian Herald.

Uncle Ezra Says

"It don't take more'n a grill uv effort to git folks into a peck of trouble" and a little neglect of constipation, biliousness, indigestion or other liver derangement will do the same. If ailing, take Dr. King's New Life Pills for quick results. Easy, safe, sure, and only 25 cents at The Andrews Drug Company.

The battle in Arkansas generally known as Pea Ridge ended this day with the defeat of General Van Dorn's Confederates by the Federal army under General Curtis. The losses in two days' fighting were over 1,000 killed and wounded on each side.
